

To whom it may concern,

Dean Cole was engaged by our company in the late summer of 2006 to design and coordinate the tenant improvements in our new offices. I had heard about Dean through our long-standing relationship with Calaway Park and had admired his work at the park for some years. When Dean told me he was interested in pursuing more of an interior design path in his career and would we be interested in working with him on our new space I jumped at the chance.

I found Dean to be very methodical and sensitive in his approach. He asked a number of questions regarding use of space, needs specific to our business and scope and scale of overall project budget I was comfortable with. After these sessions Dean came back to me with a number of distinct directions all of which were on strategy, one of which stood out as particularly suited to our vision for the space. After some fine-tuning, he sat in on the contractor briefing then proceeded to stay involved as the build out occurred.

Dean was pleasant, professional and accommodating throughout the process and as a result of his hard work and clear vision we are now enjoying tenancy in space, which was cost effective to build, functional in design and attractive to work in.

I heartily recommend that if you are looking for space with some thought in terms of functionality and interest in terms of finish, that you speak to Dean first. You won't be disappointed.

Sincerely,

Dean McKenzie,
